

Instructor's Guide Quick Start

The BookShark™ Instructor's Guide (IG) is designed to make your educational experience as easy as possible. We have carefully organized the materials to help you and your children get the most out of the subjects covered. If you need help reading your schedule, see "How to Use the Schedule" in Section Four.

This IG includes a 36-week schedule, notes, assignments, readings, and other educational activities. See Section Three for specific organizational tips, topics and skills addressed, the timeline figure schedule, and other suggestions for the parent/teacher. Here are some helpful features that you can expect from your IG.

Easy to use

Everything you need is located right after the schedule each week. If a note appears about a concept in a book, it's easy to find it right after the schedule based on the day the relevant reading is scheduled.

Maps

Colorful map answer keys, which double as bookmarks, will help you easily find relevant map locations. You will find the coordinates and the location name in your notes.

4-Day Schedule

Designed to save one day a week for music lessons, sports, field trips, co-ops or other extra-curricular activities.

To Discuss After You Read

These sections help you hone in on the basics of a book so you can easily know if your children comprehend the material.

To Discuss After You Read

Q When Henry brings food home for his siblings, the author describes the food by its color—i.e., brown bread and yellow cheese; can you think of four foods that are made more specific by describing their color?
A suggestions: white and dark meat (chicken); green beans/ yellow beans; yellow tomatoes; yellow squash; dark

Vocabulary

Ululating: howl or wail as an e

Melee: a confused fight, skirm

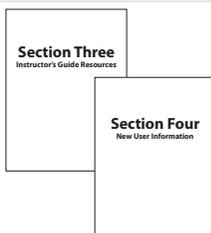

Vocabulary

This section includes terms related to cultural literacy and general vocabulary words in one easy-to-find place.

Notes

When relevant, you'll find notes about specific books to help you know why we've selected a particular resource and what we hope your children will learn from reading it. Keep an eye on these notes to also provide you with insights on more difficult concepts or content (look for "Note to Mom or Dad").

Note: The Yangtze River is the third longest river in the world. The author talks about "the yellow waters of the Yangtze river." The river carries an enormous amount of silt from higher elevation in Western China. It drops the silt on the central plains which creates good soil for rice planting. In 2010, the Chinese government completed the Three Gorges Dam across the Yangtze, the world's largest dam. It generates electricity and will hopefully cut down on flooding. To build it, the government moved 1.2 million people.

Instructor's Guide Resources and New User Information

Don't forget to familiarize yourself with some of the great helps in Section Three and Section Four so you'll know what's there and can turn to it when needed.

How to Use the Schedule

More notes with important information about specific books.

The N symbol provides you with a heads-up about difficult content. We tell you what to expect and often suggest how to talk about it with your kids.

4-Day Schedule:

This entire schedule is for a 4-Day program. We provide a blank cell on Day 5 to allow for your own activities and topics that you would like to teach your children.

Write in the week's date for your records.

The  symbol indicates there is a timeline suggestion in the notes for that day.

The  symbol indicates you will find a map assignment in the notes for that day.

The  symbol indicates there is a figure for you to place on the timeline.

Use the extra rows to schedule additional assignments or activities.

Reading the History Books Aloud

We encourage you to use the narration method to help your children focus and retain the history material. Narration differs from the classroom method of testing random ideas and may seem strange at first, but we have no doubt you'll come to appreciate it.

In the narration method you'll read the history books together and then have your children tell you what they remember from the reading. Enjoy hearing all your children have grasped!

The Story of the World: Ancient Times | Introduction pp. 1–6

To Discuss After You Read

Q: Define "history."

A: the story a historian writes about the past

Q: Explain the difference between a historian and an archeologist.

A: historians read accounts of things written in the past; archeologists study artifacts people left behind

The Kingfisher History Encyclopedia | pp. vii–ix

Note: You will continue to use this book next year with BookShark's History 7, World History, Year 2 of 2.

Overview and Introduction

The Kingfisher History Encyclopedia is full of wonderful information, fascinating illustrations, and enough wonder to keep everyone interested! Be aware of some of the features of the book. First, each section opens with a one-page summary of the historical era, such as the Renaissance on page 193. Second, you'll find The World at a Glance pages right after broad sections (for example, pages 194–195). Third, you'll want to keep an eye on the time line at the top of content pages so you and your children will have a better picture of what historical period you're in (see the top of pages 196–197, for instance). Fourth, each historical era closes with a summary of three subject areas: The Arts, Architecture, and Science and Technology (see, for instance, pages 234–239). Finally, note the Ready Reference section beginning on page 465, which contains a detailed list of names, dates, and events. There's also an Index beginning on page 479.

Current Events | Report

We believe that students starting in History 5 or History 6 need to begin learning about world affairs—matters of social, political, economic, and cultural concern—that are appropriate for their interest. They should be informed about these matters, and they ought to be forming appropriate opinions about them.

Beginning in History 7, we believe students ought to begin to add a statement of their own position on the issues of the day and explain why they believe and feel as they do. In History 5 and 6, we don't require students to state a position or argue for a position on any issue; they must simply prove that they are informed by telling you about an article they have read in a newspaper or magazine. Once each week, on the last day of the week, students must report verbally on some matter of significant local, regional, national, or international concern that they have read about during the previous week. They must state who the protagonists are in the case and what makes the matter significant. What are the potential effects of the matter turning out one way or another? What are the two (or more) sides arguing about (issues as well as side issues)? In History 7, students should make two such verbal reports each week.

Please read the same article as your children and add background information to aid in your children's understanding.

If you came across an uncommon or unfamiliar term explain it. Give your children whatever historical, cultural, and other background you can, as well as talk about any parallel situations with which your children might be familiar from their studies of history or other cultures.

The best time to hold these discussions about current events is over the dinner table.

A Rationale for Studying Current Events

Why study current events? There are many reasons. One is to help children become familiar with the names and events that are in the news. When kids become familiar with these names and events, they are better able in the future to read articles about the same people or the same or related events.

Another reason: by reading news from other parts of the world, we get to see our local situation in a broader context. It's similar to what we gain by studying history. We see, for instance, that we are not alone in some of our experiences: "We don't have it so bad." Finally, a study of current events—as a study of history in general—can give us the opportunity to learn from other people's mistakes.

Imagine. Are you likely to go someplace you've never heard of? Hardly! Nor are you likely to try a new idea if you've never heard of anyone else doing the same thing before.

By becoming informed about other people in other places, we broaden our horizons and open our minds to all manner of options we would otherwise never consider.

Read-Alouds

Read-Alouds are quality literary works you read to your children. Among all their many qualities, Read-Alouds:

- introduce your children to great literature possibly beyond their personal reading capacity.
- develop a life-long love of reading.
- expand your children’s vocabulary.
- build important listening skills—including the ability to visualize the meaning of spoken words.
- develop an “ear” for good oral reading.
- develop oral reading skills. Having heard quality oral reading done by you, your children will imitate you.
- give you and your children a context for sharing mutually significant times together.

Read-Alouds differ from Readers in that they require deeper understanding of “the way things are”—in life in general or in a specific area. Others are emotionally charged enough that we figure you ought to be “right there” to help debrief your children.

And then there are those books we’ve classified as Read-Alouds simply because they’re too good to let your children enjoy by themselves. We know you’d feel cheated if you weren’t in on the adventure.

Vocabulary Development

We incorporate vocabulary development within the Read-Aloud notes. We pull these vocabulary words from the books you read.

How to Teach Vocabulary: Find the vocabulary words in bold type in a sentence. Read the sentence to your children and see if they can define the word. If they don’t know, just explain what the word means to your children. For words that are in bold type followed by a colon, define the word for your children as you read the book aloud.

Example:

Vocabulary

... Night came down quickly over the equatorial forest ... (a rainforest near the equator)

Hibernation: when animals spend the winter sleeping.

The Golden Goblet | Chapter 1

Vocabulary

Ibni only edged closer, ducked his head even farther between his shoulders, and scrubbed his hands together ingratiatingly. (pleasingly, flatteringly)

His voice was like the sound of a badly made flute, and sibilant with his Babylonian accent. (having, containing, or producing the sound of or a sound resembling that of the s or the sh in sash)

“Welcome, friend Eyes-on-the-Ground,” said a voice half-amused, half-diffident. (characterized by modest reserve)

He turned to Heqet more brusquely than he intended. (in a markedly short and abrupt manner)

He grudged admitting even that relationship. (to give or allow with reluctance or with resentment) crucibles: a melting pot used to melt and refine a substance (as metal and ore) which requires a high degree of heat.

“By Amon” and “neb”: one of the most important gods in ancient Egyptian mythology. “By Amon” would be a form of swearing. “Neb” means “Lord.”

youth-lock hairstyle: thick strand of hair left to grow from one side of a shaven head that fell in a curl to the shoulder.

amulets: charm often inscribed with a magic spell, or symbol and believed to protect the wearer against evil or aid him.

drawplate: a die with holes through which wires are drawn.

annealing: heating and then cooling metal to soften and make less brittle.

khefts: evil demons, ghosts.

bas: the divine soul in Egyptian religious belief represented as a bird with a human head and believed to leave the body at death and return eventually to revivify the body if preserved.

Set: also called Seth, was an ancient Egyptian god of storms, violence, darkness, and desert land. He was also a god of desert animals, serpents, pigs, hippopotamuses, and crocodiles. Seth was identified with an animal that had the body of an elongated jackal or greyhound; a long neck; a thin, curved snout; rectangular, upraised ears; and a stiff, forked tail. Seth was often portrayed with a human body and the head of this beast.¹

Osiris “the Merciful”: Egyptian fertility god who became the chief god of the underworld. As son of the earth god Geb, Osiris was regarded as a source of the earth’s fertility. Egyptians sometimes compared him to the Nile River. In Egyptian royal theology, the king was considered living Horus, who was the son of Osiris. After the king died, he became Osiris. After Egyptian funeral practices became more democratic, every Egyptian expected to become an Osiris after death.

Thoth's "mercy": ancient Egyptian moon god. He was a patron of civilization and such intellectual arts as writing, astronomy, mathematics, law, magic, and healing. Thoth's most important role in the underworld was to oversee the scales on which the souls of the dead were weighed to determine innocence or guilt.²

Q: Why is Ranofer so bothered by anyone seeing that his half brother beats him?

A: the stripes seem like the mark of a slave, and he doesn't want anyone to think he is weak and unable to defend himself

Q: How did Ranofer suspect Ibni was stealing from the goldsmith?

A: as Ibni washed the raw gold, he would sneak a bit at a time and hide it in the wineskin—the loss would be written off as the rummel that came in with the gold

Q: Why does Ranofer not want to tell anyone his suspicions? What would you do in his situation?

A: because Ranofer carried the wineskin, he was part of the crime and his half brother would kill him

When Hapia says, "I vow I've been pulling wire since the First Hill rose off the waters of time, and still I've not done" he means that he feels like he's been working at the task since the dawn of time. He refers to the Egyptian story of creation. Each culture seeks to explain how life began. The Egyptian creation story tells that in the beginning there was only water, a chaos of churning, bubbling water. Eventually the floods receded and out of the chaos of water a hill of dry land emerged. First one, then more. On this first dry hilltop, on the first day came the first sunrise ☀.

Favorite Poems Old and New | "Me"—"Washing" pp. 5–7

It is easy when reading a poem, especially when reading a metered and rhymed poem (a poem with a regular "beat" or meter and lines that rhyme), to overemphasize the patterns and lose the meaning. A serious poem—even a highly regular poem—should be read primarily for the sense and not for the meter and rhyme. Therefore, when reading a poetic sentence that has no punctuation mark at the end of a line—no period, colon, semicolon, dash or comma: don't slow down, place extra emphasis on, or extend the final word. Read as you would if you were reading a sentence in a normal book. At first this style of reading may feel strange; after a while you will find it is the best way (see "Barter" [p. 21] for an example of a poem that would be far the worse for reading if you emphasized its regularity).

Another hint about serious poems: they are more compact than regular prose writing. A good poem is one that packs far more thought and feeling into a set of words than one might expect from a common set of sentences of the same length. Because of their condensed nature, most poems merit more than one read-through at a time. As you read the poems in Favorite Poems Old and New, take the time—the re-reading, the questioning, the musing, the imagining—to savor the full significance of what the poets are trying to say.

Mara, Daughter of the Nile | Chapters 1–2

Setting

Egypt; 1400s BC

Overview

Mara, a slave, becomes a spy for Queen Hatshepsut (?–1469 BC), the pharaoh, whose extravagant building projects and excursions inflict heavy taxes on the Egyptians. Shortly thereafter, Sheftu, a young nobleman, enlists Mara's help as a spy for Thutmose, the true king, a man imprisoned by the powerful Queen. Mara prefers to help the king, but must continue to serve the Queen, lest she be sold. A traitor to the king finally betrays Mara, and Sheftu, thinking Mara betrayed him, although he loves her, seeks to kill her. When he discovers that Mara serves the king as whole-heartedly as he does, Sheftu purposefully walks into a trap to save her, and then the revolution occurs, quickly and easily. Thutmose takes the throne, Hatshepsut drinks poison, and Sheftu, now Count, marries Mara.

Vocabulary

Use the following words as you discuss today's reading to enhance your children's understanding of the story.

Set: or Seth; an ancient god of the desert, storms, darkness and chaos. [chap. 1] shenti: a loincloth or scarf worn by men, wrapped around their waists and held by a belt. [chap. 1]

kheft: a lost soul or demon. [chap. 1]

Kush: a kingdom south of Egypt. Pharaohs took control of Kush during the New Kingdom, so a "son of Kush" would be someone from this land. Since they were a conquered people group, an Egyptian would consider this phrase less than flattering. [chap. 1]

Hatshepsut: (1503–1482 BC) the fourth female pharaoh in Egyptian history. The daughter of King Thutmose I and his chief wife, Queen Ahmose, Hatshepsut married her half-brother, King Thutmose II. When Thutmose died unexpectedly about 1490 BC, Hatshepsut's stepson, Thutmose III, inherited the throne. But because he was too young to rule, Hatshepsut served as regent (temporary ruler). Within a few years, and with the support of the priests of the god Amon, Hatshepsut had herself crowned pharaoh alongside her stepson. Because Egyptians believed their kings were divine, she justified her new role by claiming to be the god Amon's daughter. She also had herself represented as a man on monuments.³ [chap. 1]

2. Source: 2003 World Book Encyclopedia.

3. Source: 2003 World Book Encyclopedia.

Thutmose III: Egyptian Pharaoh reigning from 1504–1450 BC. Thutmose III was son of Thutmose II, and son-in-law to queen Hatshepsut, as he married her daughter—his own half-sister. As an adult ruler, Thutmose III conducted 17 successful campaigns which served him a position as the most successful Pharaoh ever—in military terms. He extended Egyptian territory and power considerably, into Mesopotamia and Nubia. The conquered territories were put under control of vassal kings and chiefs, who paid high taxes to Egypt. He extended the temple at Karnak, as well as constructed new monuments at Abydos, Aswan, Heliopolis, and Memphis. His mummy was found in 1881 at Dayru I-Bahri. He was succeeded by Amenhotep II . [chap. 1]

gamin: street boy. [chap. 2]

scarab: a stone beetle used as a talisman or ornament. [chap. 2]

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: Once Nekonkh realizes he's been speaking poorly of Hatshepsut, what does he do? Why? [chap. 1]
 A: he denies making a statement that he would like to overthrow the pharaoh and immediately makes statements to show he supports her. He does this because it was treason to speak against the queen, and the punishment for doing so was harsh
- Q: What makes Mara a valuable spy? [chap. 2]
 A: she speaks Babylonian, reads and writes well, is sharp-witted, does not look like a slave, is proud and desires freedom

The worship of many gods is known as polytheism. (p. 3)

Much of what we think we know about ancient humans is based largely on speculation and inference. Do not underestimate their intelligence. After all, the construction of the pyramids of Egypt testifies at least to architectural ingenuity. We want to be careful about thinking in terms of “primitive” people who lived long ago, as though they did not possess intelligence and creativity. Granted, human beings have made a lot of technological progress and advances, but this does not mean that early humans were somehow less competent.

Gebu had two aspects, one noisily jocular, one ferociously quiet. (given or disposed to jesting)

He stood a moment, took an irresolute step backward, then swerved suddenly and ran down a lane ... (uncertain how to act or proceed)

With fumbling hands he extricated the wilting blossom from the folds of his sash. (to draw out from or forth from and set free of a tangled, jumbled, confused, or otherwise involved heap, mass, or situation)

... the knees, the dusty rag of a shenti that always hung askew on his hips. (out of line, to one side)

Instantly he was aghast at his own temerity. (aghast: struck with amazement, bewilderment, disgust, or surprise; temerity: unreasonable or foolhardy contempt of danger or opposition)

The heavy hand slapped back and forth across Ranofer's face, almost negligently, yet with a force that twisted a crick into his neck and set his ears ringing. (unstudied, offhand)

“Take care I do not apprentice you to some fishmonger. Ingrate!” (an ungrateful person)

The invariable reaction to a scene with Gebu had begun to set in, a fatigue so deep it penetrated mind and body alike. (invariable: consistent, unchanging; fatigue: weariness from labor or exertion)

“By Amon, you have grown too toplofty of late, behaving like Pharaoh instead of the gutter waif you are.” (a stray person or animal)

One needed only one's nose to recognize his characteristic aura of river stink and barley-beer fumes. (a distinctive and often subtle sensory stimulus)

Lord Sobk: ancient Egyptian crocodile-god.

Maat: ancient Egyptian goddess personifying law and righteousness 🏛️.

sedge: a grass-like plant that grows in wet places.

papyrus: a tall reed with a triangular stem.

umbel: flower parts used for paper and other items.

obsidian: volcanic glass; a hard, dark, glassy stone that forms when lava cools.

fishmonger: fish dealer.

vindictively: intended for or involving revenge.

lotus: the Egyptian water lily. This plant has white or rose-purple flowers that may be 1 foot [30 centimeters] across. The leaves spread out on the water's surface. The lotus was a sacred flower to the people of Egypt, India, and China. A species of the lotus appears in ancient Egyptian art.⁴

"Black Land": Egypt; every year the Nile overflowed and deposited a strip of rich, black soil along each bank.⁵

Queen Tiy: 1385 BC, wife of Amenhotep III. Of humble origin, she was remarkable for her influence in state affairs in the reigns of her husband and of Ikhnaton, her son. The occurrence of her name with that of Amenhotep III shows an official recognition of the queen that was most unusual for Egypt 🏛️.

Q: Why do you think Mara is not happy with her second job? [chap. 5]

A: answers will vary; possible: she is beginning to like Sheftu; she dislikes the Queen's extravagance; perhaps she is intrigued by the idea of doing something for Egypt rather than just for herself

Q: At the end of the chapter, who do you think has the upper hand—Mara or Sheftu? Why? [chap. 5]

Q: How did farmers near the Nile River farm differently than farmers in other places? Why?

A: since the Nile River floods every year, farmers here learned that when the flood waters receded, they left rich silt behind that was good for growing crops. Farmers simply waited for the flood waters to go down before planting their crops, and then their crops could grow in healthy soil without washing away in a flood

Q: How did Egyptian farmers keep flood waters to use in the dry season?

A: they dug canals that led away from the river to capture flood water and then would block the ends of the canals so the flood water couldn't flow away again until they wanted it to

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: What form of writing did Egyptians use? On what did they write?
 A: they used pictures, called hieroglyphs, to represent words and sounds; on stone tablets
- Q: Why was the area of the Fertile Crescent called "Mesopotamia"?
 A: this land lies between the Tigris River and the Euphrates River, and "Mesopotamia" means "between two rivers"
- Q: What is Sumerian writing called? How does it differ from Egyptian writing?
 A: cuneiform; it is formed from a wedge stylus pressed into clay
- Q: Why did Sumerians write on clay tablets (rather than stone) before the Egyptians did?
 A: Sumerians lived between two rivers where there was plenty of damp clay around. Egyptians wouldn't have had the same access to this material
- Q: How were clay tablets an improvement over stone?
 A: they were lighter and easier to carry around; they could be marked up and wiped out or baked to make the writing permanent. Stone was heavier and took longer to carve
- Q: Why do you think Egyptians wrote on paper before Sumerians did?
 A: the Egyptians learned to develop paper (or papyrus) which is made from a reed that grows on the banks of the Nile. They also learned how to make ink
- Q: How was ink on paper (papyrus) an improvement over clay tablets?
 A: it was much easier to write on, carry and store
- Q: Name some detriments to keeping records on paper.
 A: paper isn't very durable, so it isn't able to keep records for hundreds of years. We don't know much about Egyptians once they started recording everything on paper

... he noticed Heqet standing close beside Rekh's worktable, ostensibly watching the goldsmith raise a bowl, but actually whispering to him under cover of the hammer taps. (to all outward appearances)

Confused and jostled, Ranofer was swept along by the crowd ... (pushed and shoved)

Ranofer slowed his pace, ashamed of his surliness. (gloomy ill nature)

He whirled the rings on his finger tip, then tucked them away, patting his sash complacently. (marked by sometimes unwarranted, uncritical, and irritating satisfaction and pleasure at one's own personality, accomplishments, or situation)

He found his way back to the goldhouse furtively, through the alleys. (in a stealthy manner)

He scrambled to his feet and darted over to Ranofer with his most obsequious smile. (prompt and dutiful in attendance on the wishes of one in authority)

"Him and his paltry wineskins." (something useless or worthless)

Deciding that what he wished now was the obscurity of his corner, he started for the acacia tree. (the quality of being obscure, inconspicuous, or unknown, or uncomprehending)

"stoke an oven": to poke or stir up the fire, supply with fuel.

kohl: soot mixture used in Arabia and Egypt to darken the edges of the eyelids.

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: Why were tomb robbers despised?
A: the Three Thousand Years of the dead person would lack the luxuries needed to live in paradise, plus the protection of amulets would be gone, and if his mummy was destroyed, the soul would have no body to return to—which would lead to the murder of the very soul
- Q: Where did the Ancient sell his papyrus? What do you think was it used for?
A: to the sailmakers—probably to make sails and ropes for the important ships that transported all goods of Egypt

- Q: Why did Egyptians embalm the dead?
A: they believed that the departed went on to another life in the afterworld if their bodies were intact
- Q: Do the pyramids today look the way Egyptians intended them to? Why or why not?

- A: no, they were once covered in white limestone and probably had a golden cap covering the pointed stone at the top

Q: Why do you think Sheftu goes by Sashai at the Inn of the Falcon? [chap. 12]

A: to conceal his identity to those he's working with. In case some were captured, they wouldn't be able to identify their true leader

Q: What does Mara learn about the proprietors of the Inn of the Falcon? [chap. 13]

A: the inn keeper's wife was Sheftu's childhood nurse, and her husband was the head of his father's stables

Q: How does Thutmose prepare to take the throne? [chap. 13]

A: he staged a miracle that, during a festival, "Amon" proclaimed him pharaoh—the people remember and think it true; the priests are mostly on his side, as are many young nobles and commoners concerned with the state of the country

Q: What do you think of Sahure, the juggler? Do you trust him? Why or why not? [chap. 13]

A: yes—this chapter describes obelisks the queen had added to the temple of Amon. They were 97 feet tall "needles of stone," cut from single blocks of granite, and so tall the roof of the hall had to be removed so they could be installed. Once there, the queen thought they were too dull so she ordered them covered with priceless electrum—all for her own glory

Q: Why do you think Sheftu asked the priest to obtain the Royal Seal? [chap. 14]

A: *when tombs were shut, priests would seal the door shut and mark the seal with a particular mark so it would be easy to tell if the tomb had been disturbed. Several others tried, but when Osiris tried, Seth locked the lid in place and threw it into the Nile. When Isis heard the news, she set out to look for Osiris because she feared he would not be able to enter the afterlife without a proper burial. She found the sarcophagus and hid it in the marshes, but Set discovered it while hunting, cut Osiris's body into 14 pieces and scattered them across Egypt. Isis once again searched for the pieces of Osiris's body and when she found 13 of them, she made the 14th piece out of gold and used magic to bring him back to life. - Q: What do you think of the sample laws listed in your book that Hammurabi wrote?
 A: answers will vary; possible: some sound reasonable, others sound like very harsh punishments for some things that could be accidental or uncontrollable
- Q: Why did Babylonians watch the stars?
 A: they thought they could find out what the gods were doing by watching the stars
- Q: What did they learn from their star studies?
 A: they discovered that the Earth moves around the Sun, and decided that the time it takes to do so was "one year." From this information, they divided a year into 12 months, a day into 24 hours, and an hour into 60 minutes

Early Israel had many encounters with the Hittites, as well as with the Egyptians and Mesopotamians. Being polytheists, the Hittites were obviously at odds with the monotheistic Hebrews.

The encyclopedia has mentioned the Sea Peoples before, but yet again fails to offer any more insights on them. Here they are said to have defeated the Hittites. Records about the Sea Peoples are sketchy, with some considering them to be a group of various cultures rather than a specific or distinct kingdom. The term "Sea People" in reference to these groups is a recent one, introduced in the 19th century. In ancient documents sometimes the tribes are named, with certain Egyptian records indicating the people came from the sea or from among islands. An internet search for "Sea People" and "Sea Peoples" will turn up a variety of sources if you wish to learn more about these mysterious conquerors.

Astrology and astronomy are far from the same thing. Although modern astronomy can be traced to interest in astrology, the latter is an occult activity seeking to know the future on the basis of the heavens, such as by studying stars or other celestial bodies.

- Q: What did the Hittites use in warfare that gave them an advantage?
 A: chariots, iron
- Q: What role did the Hittites play in their region?
 A: they were warlike conquerors
- Q: What kind of ruler was Hammurabi?
 A: he was efficient, put together a code of laws, and helped stabilize Babylon during difficult times
- Q: What key weapon did the Babylonians use to defend themselves?
 A: bow and arrow

The Golden Goblet | Chapter 10

Vocabulary

The Ancient's seamed face appeared through the fringe of reeds and his one eye rolled from Ranofer to Heqet with an expression of exaggerated stealth. (seamed: wrinkled, furrowed; stealth: furtiveness, slyness)

They gambled at hounds–and–jackals with some crony in the privacy of their own courtyards. (a longtime close friend or companion)

Ranofer dropped to the ground, staggered with relief and treacherously numbed toes, flung himself out the gate and closed it. (characterized by usually hidden dangers, hazards, or perils)

He kept a faithful, if intermittent, eye on Setma too. (not continuous, periodic)

They explained the inexplicable. (unable to be explained)

What faint light they shed fell gloomily upon some roof corner or a waving strand of vine, transforming familiar daytime shapes to eerily unfamiliar phantoms. (an apparition or specter)

He saw nothing but blackness, heard nothing but the light staccato of his own frightened feet. (something that is broken up into brief sharp bursts)

But he could not hear it over the hideous reverberations of that other noise. (a sound persisting because of repeated reflections after the source has been cut off)

The street was as black, as threatening, as enigmatic as before. (inexplicable, puzzling)

He had mentioned nothing of his nocturnal fiasco to Heqet or the Ancient, and now he was glad. (nocturnal: done, held, or occurring in the night; fiasco: an utter and often ridiculous failure especially of an ambitious or pretentious undertaking)

One of these latter drawings contained a detail he found in none of the others, either a truncated passage or a small room in a location which seemed either senseless or mistaken. (cut short)

"Impudent mongrel!" Gebu flung the words at him like stones. (impudent: marked by contemptuous or cocky boldness or disregard of others; mongrel: a person of mixed birth or tendencies or of undefined status)

Halfway there an audacious thought stopped him. (recklessly venturesome, presumptuously bold)

Ranofer hurried up the worn and slanting steps, his mind full of enticing images. (alluring, attractive, beguiling) dom palm tree: also spelled doom or doum, the dom palm grows in Arabia, Upper Egypt, and Central Africa. Each branch ends in a tuft of deeply lobed, fan-shaped leaves. The tree bears an irregularly oval fruit about the size of an apple. The fruit has a red outer skin and a thick, spongy, and rather sweet inner substance that tastes like gingerbread. Large quantities of these fruits have been found in the tombs of the Egyptian pharaohs. The seeds are a source of vegetable ivory.³

hounds–and–jackals: a board game, see a description and rules on our IG links page 📄.

Thutmose the Conqueror: Pharaoh from about 1490–1436 BC.⁴

barque: any small sailing ship.

waning: of the moon.

headrest: shaped part or attachment for supporting the head.

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: Why does the rising of the Nile cause everyone's demeanor to rise?
- A: the gloom of the god's death and joy at his rebirth; the Nile is the lifeblood of the people, and they need it to survive
- Q: Why could Ranofer not imagine Gebu sneaking into rich men houses?
- A: Gebu is too heavy to sneak, and rich men had guards and dogs
- Q: Why was the street so scary after dark?
- A: the street had no lights, and the stars made even familiar things look unusual
- Q: Describe the golden goblet.
- A: the goblet was pure gold, shaped like a lotus blossom, with a band of silver around the rim, and silver for its stem. Etched into the curve of a petal was the name of Thutmose–Nefer–Kheperu, a long-dead pharaoh

- Q: How does Mara feel about Sahure? Why do you think this is so? [chap. 19]
- A: she loathes him and she's afraid of him; possible: because she's nearly almost run into him once as she's fulfilling the role of her other identity, she doesn't trust him to keep quiet about her if it would serve his purposes better, he seems to constantly pry and doesn't take "no" for an answer easily
- Q: How does Sheftu respond to Mara's mistake of keeping the ring? [chap. 19]
- A: his words seem to say he doesn't think any more of the matter, but he lets go of her hand as he spoke, as though he's not sure he trusts her again. Even at the end of the chapter, Mara is unsure if the issue is over or not

- Q: Why did Sheftu comment to Nekonkh on the riverboat “Till now, I understood your allegiance to be to myself and to the king—and no one else. Was I mistaken?” [chap. 20]
- A: because Nekonkh had been defending Mara’s actions, and Sheftu needed to remind him that their cause was really more important than another player—should that player be a spy for the queen
- Q: How does Sheftu plot to uncover Mara’s treachery? [chap. 20]
- A: Nekonkh tells her the “whereabouts” of the gold in the presence of others; if the location is raided, he will know she is a spy for the other side
- Q: What potential problems does the trap have?
- A: Nekonkh wasn’t told to tell Mara privately. If another person who is unfaithful to the cause overhears, they could raid the ship, even if Mara didn’t give up her information

- Q: Why was Shamshi-Adad powerful?
- A: Shamshi-Adad was not a just ruler, but a dictator who killed anyone who didn’t agree with him
- Q: Would you want to follow a leader like him? Why or why not?
- A: he ruled by fear and violence. People who followed him were afraid of him and did not follow because they had faith in him to lead well
- Q: Why do you think ancient people told stories like the story of Gilgamesh?
- A: to teach morals, to explain things that were difficult to understand
- Q: Retell the story of Gilgamesh.
- A: *the ancient people tell stories of Gilgamesh, a king who was half-man and half-god. When he was unkind to his people, the gods sent Enkidu, a half-man and half-beast. They fought, then became friends, and Enkidu helped Gilgamesh become a wise and gracious king. Later, the gods killed Enkidu and Gilgamesh sought eternal life, but he did not achieve it. “Yesterday’s baking,” he remarked laconically. (spoken or expressed briefly)

The Ancient nodded in a conspiratorial manner, winked his one eye, and chuckled again as he led Ranofer into the lane where his donkey was snuffling morosely along the baked road. (conspiratorial: as if agreeing to do an unlawful act or use unlawful means to do an act which is lawful; morosely: sullenly)

When two rogues like that fall out, you may be sure it is over the price of some skulduggery one is to do for the other. (rogues: dishonest unprincipled persons; skulduggery: dishonest, under-handed, unfair, or unscrupulous behavior or activity)

He dared not count on Setma’s malice to help his own cause. (intention or desire to harm another usually seriously by doing something unlawful or otherwise unjustified)

- Q: Why must Ranofer have the goblet as evidence before he can accuse Gebu of tomb raiding?
- A: without it, no one would believe him because he has no authority
- Q: Describe how Ranofer patched the scarab seal.
- A: Ranofer lit a torch from a neighbor’s then collected the crumbled clay from the floor. He spat on it to moisten it then smoothed it over the crack. With a palm fiber from the torch, he re-scratched the missing parts of the design on the seal
- Q: Why is Ranofer flabbergasted when Gebu seems to bring the goblet to the stonecutting shop?
- A: there is no place to hide an item like that in the shop

checking a ship's trim: a ship's captain should check a ship's trim to determine if it's perpendicular to the water to make sure the cargo evenly balances the ship in the water so the ship won't capsize as it travels. [chap. 21]

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: How do Nekonkh and Sheftu respond once the raiders boarded the ship? [chap. 21]
- A: Nekonkh pleads to take Mara away again—Sheftu's demeanor was such that even the burly riverboat captain was afraid of him. Sheftu curtly reminds Nekonkh that he should strictly follow orders
- Q: What do you think of Sheftu's stubbornness to stick to his plan for Mara's fate, even when Nekonkh offers to take her out of Thebes for a second time? Do you think he would have the same response if another had betrayed him? [chap. 21]
- A: possible: He is angry, but perhaps more so this time because he is also hurt and disappointed in Mara. Therefore, he falls back on his blind devotion to the cause, and makes the best determination in that light as the logical and reasonable course of action. He is a kind man, and may have let Nekonkh take another lesser person away, if they hadn't wounded him as Mara had
- Q: Why does Mara run away from Nekonkh? [chap. 22]
- A: to find her other master to learn his plans, and then try to slip away from him and warn the revolution
- Q: How has Mara's game “tumbled about her ears”? [chap. 22]
- A: Sahure had been spying on her, and names her and all of the regular attendees at the Inn as traitors. Nahereh plans another raid and locks Mara in her room with an armed guard so she has no way to escape

- Q: Why was Mara eventually captured? [chap. 23]
- A: because she told Nekonkh that she would stay in the courtyard until he returned, and for once she meant to keep her word

- Q: In what ways were rivers better than roads for ancient people?
- A: rivers offered easier and better transportation for people and goods between cities
- Q: How did these “streets” help connect the people of Mesopotamia and the Harappan civilization?
- A: the people would peddle their goods to one another along these watery trade routes
- Q: How did farming practices in the Indus Valley differ from those in Mesopotamia?
- A: the people here used elephants and water buffalo to farm; grew grain, cotton and fruit
- Q: Why were citadels important to Indus Valley cities?
- A: it served as a stronghold to keep the people safe if the city was attacked
- Q: In what ways could we consider Indus Valley cities “modern”?
- A: the houses in the Indus Valley were made of bricks. They had courtyards, wells, toilets, and drains. Large public baths kept people clean

Vocabulary

He launched into a story about the Ancient’s donkey, who had gone lame in one foot a few days before, and had required much rubbing with castor–bean oil and daubing with cool mud. (to coat with something that smirches or stains)

The Ancient gave his high–pitched chortle of laughter. (a sound expressive of pleasure or exultation)

Heqet said wryly, “Do I make myself unpleasant, as the viper said to the asp?” (wryly: marked by a clever twist, often with a hint of irony; asp: a small venomous snake of Egypt)

Then suddenly, on the day before the Festival, his wish came devastatingly true. (overpoweringly, overwhelmingly)

Heqet’s face fell ludicrously. (amusing or laughable through obvious absurdity, incongruity, exaggeration, or eccentricity)

He knew quite well that only one thing could lure Gebu from the prospect of free barley beer: the gold of the tombs. (tempt with a promise of pleasure or gain)

Ranofer’s bare toes dug convulsively into the mud. (frantically, spasmodically)

Ranofer was beginning to feel alarmingly transparent. (easily detected or seen through) castor–bean oil: colorless to amber or greenish thick non-drying fatty oil extracted from castor beans. Used chiefly as a cathartic and as a lubricant and drying oil.

* * *

High Nile Festival: celebration of the inundation, when the water flooded the land, and the festival was a day off of work for everyone, with everyone being fed at Pharaoh’s expense and drinking barley beer for free.

To Discuss After You Read

Q: Why does Ranofer not speak of his suspicions to Heqet?

A: Ranofer worries that Heqet will do something foolish, and the deed is so unspeakable

Q: Why is Ranofer so miserable with the knowledge that the thief Gebu walks free?

A: Ranofer feels guilty that he could put a thief behind bars—the only question is how

Mara, Daughter of the Nile | Chapters 24–25

To Discuss After You Read

Q: How does Mara change as a person throughout the story?

A: she learns the value of loving and trusting other people, such as friends and family, and why it is worthwhile to remain loyal to them. In exchange, she has made valuable friends and wants to treat them well in the end

Q: How does slavery affect Mara and her relationships with others, such as Innani the princess, Reshed the guard, or Sheftu?

Q: What does Mara learn from Innani (the princess)?

Q: Juxtaposition means to place close together or side by side, especially for comparison or contrast. In literature, juxtaposition occurs when one theme or idea or person is parallel to another. The author of Mara, Daughter of the Nile juxtaposes the “daughter of the Nile” (Mara) with the “daughter of the sun god” (Hatshepsut). Compare and contrast these women: think about their titles and origins, their personalities, their view of Egypt, their positions, and their value of other people. How are they the same and how are they different? If they are the same at some point in the book, but different at another point of the book, describe that. ■
